THE [Numb. 809.]

MARYLAND GAZETTE,

Containing the lateſt Advices foreign and domeſtic.

THURSDAY, November 6, 1760.

LISBON, July 16.

THE Secretary of State, Don Lewis de Cunha, by Order of his Majeſty, has wrote a Letter to Cardinal Acciaoli the Pope's Nuncio, ordering him to depart immediately from the City of iſbon; and to leave the Kingdom within the pre-ſe Time of four Days. And that for his decent onveyance, he would find the Royal Barges ready the oppoſite Shore to his Houſe; and to protect m from Inſults, a ſplendid and competent milita- Eſcort to attend him to the Frontiers of the ingdom.

On this Occaſion his Majeſty ſent to Franciſo de mada de Mendoſa, his Miniſter at the Court of me for him to communicate to the Pope, a Me-rial ſetting forth the Reaſons of the above Or-rs to Cardinal Acciaoli, to deſire his immediate cal. The Memorial is to the following Purpoſe, hat his moſt Faithful Majeſty of Portugal has al-ys ſhewn his Obſequiouſneſs to his Holineſs, d due Reſpect to the Cardinal Purple even to the ſpenſion of his own Rights; but that the Beha-our of the Cardinal was ſo clandeſtine, bold, and ditious, as obliged his moſt Faithful Majeſty to der him immediately to quit the Court of Liſbon. hat the Cardinal grew more abuſive in Proportion he was treated with more Kindneſs, and was ſo bſurd as to raiſe Diſturbances, and quarrel with e King's Authority in his own Court.

That upon the late happy Occaſion of the Mar-ge celebrated between his Daughter the Princeſs Brazil, and the Infant Don Peter his Brother, the 6th Day of June current, when all his Ma-ſty's Subjects in the City of Liſbon were ordered illuminate their Houſes for three ſucceeding ights, and when all the People did accordingly luminate their Houſes, and ſhow all poſſible De-onſtrations of Joy; together with all the foreign mbaſſadors, tho' they were not included in the rder, except the ſaid Cardinal: He on the con-ary, all the ſaid Nights ſhut up all the Windows nd Doors of the Houſe he inhabited, not letting y even of the ordinary Lights be ſeen; ſo that uring all the Time of rejoicing, ſuch a profound ilence reigned thro' his Houſe, that it ſeem'd not be inhabited, &c. That for thoſe and other A-ſes and public Inſults to his Majeſty, his faithful bjects were ſo exaſperated againſt the Cardinal, at his Majeſty ſaw no way to ſecure him from eir Reſentment, but by immediately ſending him way under a ſtrong Eſcort.

LONDON, Auguſt 14.

We are informed that the greateſt Part of the orps under General ELLIOT, who diſtinguiſhed emſelves ſo gallantly, are TAYLORS!—— muſt be confeſſed, that the TAYLORS have ow wiped off the vulgar Imputation of Effe-inacy, and ſhown themſelves to be brave MEN.

EPIGRAM on the foregoing PARAGRAPH.

NINE Taylors make a Man, the Proverb ſays,
But this was only in more ancient Days:
n theſe our Times, invert the Rule before ye,
The French deſtroy'd, proclaims the Taylor's Glory.
His Bodkin in his Hand a Sword becomes,
His Parchment Meaſures head the ſounding Drums;
His Gooſe becomes a Scull-Cap, wrought moſt rare;
His Shreds are Feathers, waving in the Air;
His Thimble lengthen'd, to a Muſket turns;
His Yard the Rammer, and his Courage burns;
His Needle picks the Touch Hole; brave, not rich,
He with his Work makes quite a thorough Stitch:
His Heart unfolds, no Danger can him quell,
And 'ſtead of Cabbage, Frenchmen ſends to H-ll.
Thus nobly arm'd, deny it he who can,
Taylor now becomes a complete Man.

We can aſſure our Readers, (ſays a London Print) om the niceſt Obſervations, that there is not a ourneyman Taylor in London who has not grown ll ſix Inches ſince the late Succeſs of their Bre-ren in Elliot's Regiment in Germany.

It gave Pain to many Well-wiſhers to their Country, that Elliot's Light Horſe ſhould have tarniſhed their Country, by unneceſſarily ſlaughtering an Enemy that ſued for Quarters, ſuch was the French Account.—Now we are credibly informed, that after the French were entirely ſurrounded, and ſaw no Probability of eſcaping, they gave Elliot's Regiment a general Diſcharge, which coſt us a great Number of Men, and then threw down their Arms; let any one but Maubert ſay, whether the French, by exaſperating thoſe Troops to revenge their Countrymen, were not more inexcuſable than we.

A diſagreeable Report was ſpread Yeſterday, that an Order of Council is ſent to all the Seaports, and alſo to Admiral Boſcawen, and all cruiſing Ships, not to let the Ambuſcade Man of War, Captain Baſſet, (who is expected from the Mediterranean) come near them, but to ſink her, ſhe having an epidemical Diſtemper on Board. A Privateer in the Mediterranean is in the like Circumſtances.

The retaking of Dillenbourg, &c.

A Letter from an Officer in the Allied Army, dated Zierenberg, near Caſſel, July 27.

The retaking Dillenbourg, which was done the 22d by the Hereditary Prince, and the whole Garriſon made Priſoners of War; and the intercepting a Convoy of 300 Waggons, laden with Proviſion, Ammunition, &c. by Captain de Bulow, at the Head of a Detachment of Hanoverian Chaſſeurs near Gieſſen, and brought into the Camp, has diſtreſſed and ſtraitened Marſhal Broglio ſo much, that he was conſtrained to break up his Camp from Corbach the 15th. In order to conceal his Deſign, he detached 15,000 Men, under the Command of the Count of Luſace, towards Hirſhfeld and Fulda, to draw Prince Ferdinand's Attention, if poſſible, that Way. Another large Body he detached, under the Command of his Brother the Count de Broglio and the Count de Vere, to prevent the Junction, or elſe to cut Sporcken's Corps off from Prince Ferdinand; and the main Army, under his own Command, marched forward a little to the Left, to make a Shew as if he intended to march towards Paderborn; but the real Drift of this Movement was to cut Prince Ferdinand off from Caſſel, and to ſeize the principal Defiles, and the Gorge of Munden.

Prince Ferdinand no ſooner had Notice of their different Motions, than he perceived immediately what they aimed at; upon which he detached directly the Hereditary Prince to facilitate the Junction, and to aſſiſt General Sporcken; and himſelf, with the main Body of his Army, which he broke likewiſe up, marched towards Caſſel, where they arrived; but not without their Rear being harraſſed, and frequent Attempts made to fall in upon them, in which the Enemy were always repulſed with great Loſs on their Side: Our Loſs is but a Triſle in Compariſon.

General Sporcken had a more difficult Taſk, having been for two Days continually harraſſed by the Corps under the Command of Count Broglio, and particularly in paſſing a very difficult narrow Defile, between Fiſhbach (where the Army had reſted all Night under Arms) and Wolffeſhagen; where he was obliged to order the Cavalry to paſs round a Hill, at leaſt two or three German Miles, before they could join him on the other Side. No ſooner were the Infantry out of this Defile, than they were attacked by a large Body of the Enemy, both Horſe and Foot; nevertheleſs we marched on fighting all the Way with our Infantry, conſiſting of one Battalion of Poſt, one Battalion of Eſtorff, and 400 Picquets, &c. until we came to a riſing Ground, where we took Poſt till our Cavalry could come up; here we maintained ourſelves, notwithſtanding the great Inequality, for two Hours and a Half; when at laſt the Cavalry came up, under the Command of General Brieterbach, conſiſting of ſeven Squadrons of Hanoverians and two of Heſſians, who attacked the Enemy immediately in Flank, ſo that they were ſoon overthrown. The Fury of the Troops was ſo great, being highly enraged and exaſperated, that they could not be reſtrained from cutting down every Thing that oppoſed them:——They would give no Quarter.

Upon this Occaſion, the Enemy, by their own Confeſſion, have loſt 1500 Men, and three Generals, viz. Monſieur de Vere, killed by a Cannon Ball; Monſ. le Comte de Belſunce ſlightly, and Monſ. de Comoyras mortally wounded. Our Loſs does not exceed 200 Men; no Officer of Note hurt; but it had almoſt been fatal to his Serene Highneſs the Hereditary Prince, upon whoſe Boot a large ſpent Ball ran up, which he caught upon his Thigh.

ST. JOHN's (in ANTIGUA) Auguſt 20.

On Monday laſt a French Flag of Truce arrived from the Iſland of Granado, from whence ſhe brought the Priſoners taken in a Ship bound from Briſtol to Jamaica, which was carried in by four French Privateers.

Auguſt 23. The Sloop ——, Captain Blake, bound from this Port to Baſſeterre, in Guadaloupe, was taken by a ſmall Privateer, which has been very troubleſome on the Coaſt of Guadaloupe: The Privateer, was afterwards taken by the Antigua, but the Prize got clear.

A Privateer belonging to Briſtol has alſo taken a French Privateer, and carried her to Guadaloupe.

Auguſt 30. We hear from St. Chriſtophers, that his Majeſty's Ships Temple, Captain Obrian, and the Griffin, Captain Taylor, being on a Cruize to the Southward, had Intelligence of ſome Privateers and other Veſſels that were lying in the Harbour of Granado; and it was immediately reſolved to attempt to bring them away. For this Purpoſe his Majeſty's ſaid Ships made Sail for that Place, and having hoiſted French Colours, ſtood into the Harbour, without Heſitation, and brought up cloſe to the Fort. The Enemy ſeemed to be effectually deceived, and did not make the leaſt Oppoſition; but no ſooner were the Ships brought into a proper Poſition than they were convinced of their Error, by the Diſplay of Engliſh Colours, and a ſmart Cannonade; and at the ſame Time the Boats were diſpatched to bring away the Veſſels, which lay higher up. An Attack ſo ſudden and ſo briſk, could not be withſtood. The Fire of the Fort, which is a very good one, was irregular and ſlow; and the Enemy preſently found themſelves obliged to ſend off a Flag of Truce, with an Offer of all the Veſſels in the Harbour, perceiving that thoſe were what we aimed at. Upon this the Firing ceaſed, and our Boats took Poſſeſſion of all the Veſſels that remained, being ten in Number; and ſhortly after a Sloop from Coracoa brought to along-ſide the Temple, proud of ſo good a Convoy to Martinico.—One of thoſe Prizes is arrived at St. Chriſtophers, with a valuable Cargo, and the reſt are expected there. We do not yet know what they all are, but it is ſaid ſome of them are Privateers.

On Saturday laſt his Majeſty's Ship Creſcent, Captain Collingwood, arrived here with the St. Michael, a French Privateer, of 14 Guns and 112 Men. Captain Collingwood, but a little before, alſo took the French Privateer St. Antonio, of 8 Guns, and 80 odd Men, and ſent her to Barbados.

Since our laſt his Majeſty's Sloop Antigua, Capt. Bagſter, arrived here from a Cruize, in which ſhe has taken 2 French Privateers, of 6 Guns a-piece, and 2 Merchant Veſſels; the one a French Sugar-loaded Sloop, and the other a pretended Dutch Schooner, laden with Bale Goods.

Sept. 4. It is now ſaid that Colonel Crawford has refuſed the Government of Guadaloupe, and that Lieutenant-Colonel Dalrymple is appointed Governor thereof.

Sept. 10. We hear from the Leeward Iſlands, that conſiderable Damage has been done by the late South-Weſt Winds. Some Veſſels were put
